

Taly Nominated for Harry Jerome Award

Taly Williams has been nominated to receive the Harry Jerome Award in the category of Professional Excellence for his outstanding achievements in professional engineering and professional sports.

Taly holds a Bachelor of Applied Science degree in Engineering from the University of Waterloo and is the nation's leading authority on MIND Mechanics®. Taly was an All-Star defensive back for the Waterloo Warriors and went on to play professional football for Toronto at the safety and corner positions.

Over his 14 year engineering career, Taly has successfully completed numerous projects in the United States, Canada, and United Kingdom; one of which won "Engineering Project of the Year". More...

About the BBPA Harry Jerome Awards

Established in the memory of Harry Jerome, an outstanding African Canadian Olympic athlete, scholar and social advocate, the BBPA Harry Jerome Awards is an annual celebration of African Canadian achievement that pays tribute to outstanding and inspirational African Canadians who are truly role models of excellence.

Now in its 26th year the BBPA Harry Jerome Awards has recognized the achievements of over 250 outstanding African Canadians to date. Notable winners include former lieutenant governor of Ontario Lincoln Alexander, Senator Donald Oliver, Olympic golf medallists Donovan Bailey, and Ben Johnson, entrepreneurs Tonya Lee Williams, and Farley Flex, human rights advocate and former M.P.P the late Dr. Rosemary Brown, and renowned jazz pianist Oscar Peterson.